Dear Senator Murkowski:

This letter is in response to the reprogramming requirement in House Report 112-589, U.S. Department of the Interior, Environment, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2013, Reprogramming Guidelines, Quarterly Reports.

As of the third quarter, which ended June 30, 2013, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Forest Service has three reprogramming actions to report.

1. Project savings from fiscal year (FY) 2012 Land and Water Conservation Funds in the amount of $380,000 were reprogrammed from the El Dorado Meadows project to acquire tracts on the Hurdygurdy project. Both projects are located in California.
2. Project savings from FY 2012 Land and Water Conservation Funds in the amount of $160,000 were reprogrammed from Misty Fiords National Monument project in Alaska to two projects. The Thunderstuck project on the Monongahela National Forest in West Virginia received $131,000. This acquisition will provide increased public access, continued protection of aesthetic values, more efficient land ownership patterns, and reductions in administrative and utilization costs. The remaining $29,000 was used for inholding acquisitions and abandoned mines on the national forest and grasslands in Colorado.
3. Project savings from FY 2012 Land and Water Conservation Funds in the amount of $110,000 were reprogrammed from the Little Echo Lake acquisition on the Arapaho-Roosevelt National Forest in Colorado to fund Agency statewide projects. The funds will be used to acquire important small inholdings and abandoned mines.

A similar letter and report are being sent to Senator Jack Reed, Congressman Ken Calvert, and Congressman James P. Moran.

Sincerely,

Thomas J. Vilsack
Secretary
